Dear Community Partners,

Family and Children's Services would like to invite you to join a growing community of those making an impact on the lives of individuals across Central Maryland at the first annual Hope Heals: A Mental Health Symposium being held on Friday, May 8th, 2020 in Baltimore City.

We are delighted to announce that our Keynote Speaker will be author Charita Cole Brown. Ms. Brown's award winning debut book, Defying the Verdict: My Bipolar Life, details her journey through bipolar disorder. After her initial diagnosis, doctors predicted she would never have a "normal" life. Despite that prognosis and because of her decision to seek treatment, Ms. Brown went on to marry, raise a family, earn a master's degree in teaching and enjoy a fulfilling career in education.

Hope Heals: A Mental Health Symposium will be a dynamic day for those interested in eliminating the stigma of mental illness, full of sharing ideas, discussing challenges, gaining insights and learning about evidence-based practices. Workshops will be applicable to all attendees regardless of profession, but will provide licensed clinicians with continuing education units (CEU's) and skills to support their clinical practice.

As a sponsor, you are invited to be full partners in the conference – attend sessions, engage attendees, ask questions and exchange ideas. During the conference there will be networking opportunities to meet other professionals and individuals who also want to diminish stigma and encourage the normalization of mental health care.

Become a sponsor and take advantage of this opportunity to increase your visibility with other community members and local professionals.

Your support will go a long way towards creating better awareness of the importance of mental health.

Sincerely,

F.T. Burden
Chief Executive Officer

Conference registration opens February 2020
